ROCK COUNTY Y. M. C. A. TO HAVE ANNUAL MEET

THIRD ANNUAL BANQUET OF ROCK COUNTY Y. M. C. A. TO BE HELD TUESDAY AT LOCAL "Y"

WAS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Work of Rock County Y. M. C. A. is Known Throughout the State for Its Wide Scope.

Rock County Young Men's Christian association will close its most successful year on June first and on Wednesday, May thirty-first the third annual men's banquet given under the auspices of the county committee of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at Janesville "Y". A dinner will be served after which business meeting, election of officers and an elaborate program will be given. The banquet address will be given by Perry of Redburg. Everyone interested in the county work is welcome to attend and tickets may be secured by notifying L. A. Markham, county secretary, at his office in the local association.
During the three years of the association work in Rock county, the committee under the leadership of the secretary, have aimed to carry on a program for the building of the highest type of character in the boys and young men of the county. The work which has been done has not only reached the boys of the Y. M. C. A. groups but has directly touched the lives of many through its various activities. "The leaders in the county work," said one minister of Rock county, "are the most helpful kind of assistant pastors. Not only has the work been helpful to the pastors but it has developed leaders for all kinds of community service."

The avenue through which a large part of the country work is conducted is the group in each of the several communities. Each division carries on a program of activities which tend to develop the boys physically, mentally, socially and spiritually. The success of these groups is due quite largely to the leaders, and to the leaders in Rock county. "Too much credit cannot be given for their interest, patience, loyalty, and faithfulness in the developing of the work. Rock county has twenty-one groups with a total membership of 345 in ten different communities. The leaders of these groups are as follows: Georgetown, Adolph Jensen, M. R. Hartzell, Howard Wentworth, T. M. Hartzell, Mahlon Ogden, and Norman Clark; Clinton, A. W. Triggs, Ewert Evans, Elmer Lawson, and Elye French; Milton Junction, Carroll Swenson, Hinkley, and Ray Hull; Milton, Allison Burdick, and Gregory Hall; Bergen, Rev. John Peterson; Emerald, George, Harold Ward, Newark, Roy Cole, Fulton, J. E. Savre, Harry Hubbell, and John Scofield; Shopshire, Orin Overton; Rock Prairie, Graham Mc-Lay.

Field Days.
Four community gatherings were held during the last season, and attendance of over twelve hundred people. The Y. M. C. A. has been able to help develop local community spirit by conducting these field days and by helping social and farmers clubs with their winter programs. This year the "Y" groups are expecting to help arrange for at least six of these community days, which will do much toward the building of the highest type of character in the boys and young men of the county. Twenty-seven were held during the past year and over four hundred men and boys attended different banquets. Much interest has been shown in the basketball games that were staged and basketball were played between different groups. A deputation team of college men from Milton college spent a week end at Clinton trying through their association with the boys there to bring them new ideals and to stimulate Christian living. Since the visit of this team at Clinton several boys there have joined churches.

Outlook.
President Wilson has said that the progress of a community can be judged by the interest that is shown in the Y. M. C. A. work. If this is true the communities of Rock county are going steadily forward, for during the past year a growing interest has been shown and felt in the work. Notwithstanding this growing interest, the responsibility of the work is growing greater each day. So far, a large number of the two thousand boys in Rock county have not been touched by the Y. M. C. A. work and it is hoped by the secretary that new points may be organized this summer. Should the work grow as it surely will, a larger financial budget will have to be obtained. More volunteer leaders will be needed, but the county committee feel that men realize the value of investing money in the building of character, so plan to go gradually forward, expending the influence and usefulness of this work as fast as possible.

Conferences.
The conferences that were held the past year were very well attended. On March fourth and fifth, eighty-two older boys and men assembled at the annual Rock County Older Boys conference. This meeting was especially strong as there was a large number of group leaders present. Dr. Brown of New York was the main speaker and as a result of his talks combined with personal work of the leaders, six boys were led to make decisions for the Christian life.
Fourteen Rock county boys were present at the State conference held at Eau Claire. These boys received much valuable help there and as a result were more active in the work of their respective groups. Rock county was well represented at the state camp which was held last year in August. Many of the same boys are planning to attend the camp this year, along with many of their friends. The older boys are being especially urged to attend the older boys' camp from August ninth to the twenty-third. The state camp is not conducted alone as an outing, but as a place where the boys can have some delightful experiences, where new ideals are implanted, where everlasting friendships are made, where Christian living is stimulated, and where the boys are trained to become real leaders among those with whom they are associated.

Contests.
In co-operation with the Janesville Commercial club the Rock county Y. M. C. A. has helped promote the various contests that have been causing so much interest throughout the state. Fifty-five boys have enrolled in the state corn contest, fifty-six in the state ear corn contest, and the state trip which was recently taken. In co-operation with the Rock County Breeds' association, forty-one boys have become interested in the corn contest. Five Sunday school institutes were held and one hundred and fifty boys attended the teen age Sunday school conference. All these activities were directly or indirectly connected with the Rock County Young Men's Christian association.

You can own your own home easily by renting and saving on the offers contained in Gazette West Ads.

BOYS SHOULD SEND IN ENTRY BLANKS FOR CORN CONTEST

Entry Lists for the Rock County Corn Contest Closed on June First—Boys Should Enter.

Thirty-five boys have entered the Rock County Corn Contest up to date, and it is expected that within a few days many more will send in their entry blanks to Secretary Markham. June first is the day set for the closing of the entry lists, and if any more want to join the contest this year is running high and predictions are that the competition will be keen. Boys who have failed to send in their entry blanks should make an effort to do so and be in the line with other ambitious Rock county boys.

GOD'S WORD TEACHES US THE WORLD TRUTH

REV. HOFFMEISTER DELIVERS SERMON SUNDAY AT ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH.

'HEARING' AND 'DOING'

Honest and Continuous Hearers of the Word Have That World's Power Which Makes Them Doers.

"Hearing and Doing" was the subject taken by Rev. E. C. Hoffmeister for the service at St. Peter's English Lutheran church Sunday, in which the power of God has been emphasized in the pulpit. The text is from James 1:22-27, and the sermon in part was as follows:
"The Word of God is given to us for a very definite purpose. It is able to save our souls. With this purpose our purposeless lives take aim and direction. We hear the Word and it gives us ideas of action. It challenges our lives to new convictions. Be ye doers of the Word and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves. Thus St. James starts us.
"First of all the Word teaches us the truth of our nature and our condition. The wisest have urged, 'Know thyself.' But they groped in the dark, and their seemingly wise instructions left them groping in darkness. Having his understanding darkened, he being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in him, because of the blindness of his heart, he does not know himself unless he hears with meekness the engrained Word which is able to save his soul. Overlooker of Faults.
"For if any man be a hearer of the Word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his face in a glass; for he beholdeth himself and goeth his way and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was. Considering our own faults is the easiest thing we do. Despite the warning of the Word as it reveals our worthlessness, we deceive ourselves when we nurse the delusion that as we are all sinners, and God is very good and has no pleasure in the death of a sinner, our condition is not so alarming, though the filthiness is apparent when we look into the mirror. God is indeed good and desires to save us, but the Word shows us that there is no other.
"When as a good hearer we accept this revealed salvation in Christ Jesus we become a doer of the Word, and the Word begins its glorious work of redemption. But who looketh into the perfect law of liberty and continueth therein, he being not a faithless hearer, but a doer of the Word, this man shall be blessed in his deed. A perfect law of liberty, that strikes a glorious note. There is no contradiction in terms. There is no law that does not make men free. There is a freedom that is licentiousness. The stars have no freedom except in their obedience to the central fire; related to their dominant suns let them swing as they please before the altar of God's throne, but if they detach themselves and go to seek liberty they find it under the name of ruin. Only in experience do we learn how the Gospel gives us a glorious liberty or if the Son shall make us free, we shall be free indeed. Christ frees us from the condemnation of God, having received the wages of our sin, and in Christ that freedom we are created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them.
"The Three Groups.
"Then St. James groups these works under three heads: a bridled tongue, a compassionate love, and a clean life. If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain. Speech is a precious gift of God; we must not abuse it in the service of sin. Our profession of devotion to Christ and His Word cannot be sincere if we do not apply His grace to bridle our tongues and consecrate them to the service of our Saviour. God gives us abundant opportunity to show compassionate love toward the orphan and the afflicted. Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep ourselves from neighborliness and gladden by your presence and assistance the house that have been desolated by death—this is pure religion service.
"Then for our own moral development the Apostle adds, 'Keep your self unspotted from the world.' We are in the world yet not of it. Our hearts are in heaven. Let not the world lead us to other excursions, slighting the duties the Word lays upon us—for a darkened heart will accept such excuses as right and reasonable.
"Honest and continuing hearers of the Word have that World's power—it is the power of God unto salvation to all that believe it; and the storehouse of energy making us doers of His work."

QUESTIONS ABOUT FOOD

Answered by Alfred W. McCann.
Q.—I see the necessity of going into detail concerning your food articles, but cannot wait patiently for all the information that I know is coming, for a reason which to me is a very urgent one.

I expect to become a mother in less than three months and am anxious to supply a lack of something, whatever it may be, which my present physical condition makes very clear to me. I have suffered a craving, slight at first, but very persistent later, which is greatly aggravated in the presence of damp earth, sand, or clay. I am very sure of these things so that I am sure that I would gladly eat handfuls of earth or sand if they would satisfy the demands of my physical nature, but I know they would not. I have noticed of which I have used a little lately, and oranges, relieve this craving just a little.

During the last three months before our first baby came I suffered from the same craving which left me as weak as the child was born, but I was in such a run-down condition that I was practically helpless. I took iron for an entire year with no result. I put out its tongue almost daily until four months old, and I could not help wondering if this was not the result of the things which both of us had been deprived of. I shall be so grateful for advice.

A. Your question touches so eloquently upon that vast sum-total of needless misery suffered by so many thousands of little mothers in America that it requires an answer in detail. If you have followed from day to day the various chapters of "Foods That Build and Destroy" published here, you have doubtless learned that before its birth the babe depends for the substances of which its little body is composed upon the tissues of its mother.

Under normal and natural conditions the mother obtains these building materials from her food. However, if they have been removed from her food by refining processes such cannot obtain them.

The laws of nature are inexorable, uncompromising, fixed. They demand to the very last that the unborn child shall find all the building materials required by it during its uterine existence.

This demand, in the presence of an inadequate food supply, is made at the expense of the mother's bones, tissues and internal secretions. In other words the mother surrenders from her own body the elements that are indispensable not alone to the normal development of her child but also to the integrity of her own life processes.

The tragedy revealed by your question is this. She is able to replace without effort the losses sustained by the demands of her child if her food is natural and normal. In the absence of these demands, she is utterly unable to meet these demands.

The alkaline earthy salts, such as lime, magnesium, potassium and sodium, with their accompanying salts of phosphorus, iron, magnesium, sulphur, silicon, etc., are not present in white bread, biscuits, waffles, griddle cakes, crackers, doughnuts, soda crackers, corn starch, corn flakes, corn syrup, farina, cream of wheat, corn meal, polished rice, white sugar, lard, baking compounds, etc. In the refined types of these same foods Mother Nature supplies all the needs of animal life on this planet.

The disastrous consequences which follow our manipulation of these natural foods are in themselves a striking proof that God intended them to be present particularly during the awe-inspiring ordeal of motherhood.

The absence of the earthy salts which are removed from all the foods described above results, as observed by Vets as far back as 1850, in such a loss to the mother that, in the case of the bones, lime for instance, is surrendered to an extent that brings about a thinning and sometimes even a perforation of the skull.

Another Nature, outraged by the unnatural and unnecessary burden placed upon her through capricious addiction to refined and demineralized foods, expresses her needs in the form of "cravings." Sometimes these "cravings" are an accurate index of just what the body needs. Sometimes they represent an abnormal reflex of disturbed and irritated functions. It is well known that thousands of mothers suffer the same experience and in the same way.

Measured by what is now definitely known as the functions performed by these earthy salts in the maintenance of health, strength and disease-resistance, it can be said with emphasis that such "cravings" are but natural symptoms of a disorder which food lacks not only upon the heads of the unborn but upon those who pay the heaviest price for inadequate nourishment—the mothers of the race.

It is this tragedy that stands forth most appallingly from all the other evil results that follow in the wake of a refined diet, a tragedy which most eloquently expresses the need of food reform in the United States.

Here we see the ravages brought about by impoverished foods even before the cradle is rocked. Yet we know only too well that on the stock farm all baby animals and their mothers, whether they be chickens, sheep, hogs, calves, cattle, guinea pigs or rabbits, suffer in the same way that the human mother and her child suffer when their food is refined.

What you may well ask, is this thing "prepared" which we are all talking about when such states as these are neglected for mother and baby?

For your present relief you need not bother your head about grams, calories or any other technical detail of normal nutrition. Just insist that your bread shall contain all of the wheat, including the bran and the germ and that it shall be made of freshly ground wheat meal or whole unboltheaded rye such as pumpernick.

Eat plenty of asparagus, lettuce, dandelion, celery, baked potatoes, including the skins, string beans, new peas, spinach, cauliflower, carrots, cabbage—in fact any fresh vegetable or green thing that grows.

Continue to drink the juice of ripe oranges. Eat ripe berries, but be sure they are ripe. Drink plenty of water, but never drink distilled water.

Sip fresh, sweet, pasteurized milk obtained from dealer of whose honesty you have no doubt.

Eat baked beans with crisp bacon if you like it. Eat a soup and lentil soup if you like them. Eat as little meat and fat as you can get along without.

Eggs, particularly the yolks, when soft boiled or poached provide the substances you most require.

Avoid all fried foods and all starchy foods. Avoid all sugar except honey and pure maple sugar. If you must have sweets other than these get them from clean, dried dates and figs, both of which will yield an abundant supply of the elements your and your child most need.

After cooking vegetables make up of the water in which they are cooked. Do not throw away this valuable water as is done so absurdly and so generally throughout the United States.

Do not use ice cream unless you make it yourself or know how to make it. Consume no soda water or candies. Eat no pickles or vinegary things.

In all other respects follow your inclination.

Eat whenever you like and as much as you like and realize that within the coming three months you can repair all the damage hitherto done to the unborn that may now be recorded against your former diet, if you follow these suggestions.

If every little mother in the land could only foresee and forestall the kind of experience of which yours is typical, the American people would become a new race.

TOBACCO MERCHANTS MEET AT WASHINGTON TODAY
Washington, May 29.—A billion and a half dollars of capital was represented here today when the greatest convention of tobacco merchants in the history of the country began at the New Willard. There are 500 delegates from every section of the country, and representing every branch of the industry. From growers to leaf dealers, to manufacturers, jobber and the men behind the counters.

It is the first national convention of tobacco merchants. Cigars, that a king couldn't afford to buy in any quantity will be smoked at tonight's banquet.

When a man tries to stop smoking via the drop-in-the-coffee-cup route, he takes a chance on contracting the cocaine or other drug habits, the conclusion was told. It plans a fight on the forty-two varieties of compounds which claim to destroy the desire for tobacco.

Impressive figures of the tobacco industry were reported showing that tobacco raising utilizes 1,225 acres of land, the federal government collects $110,000,000 revenue tax, the industry pays $175,000,000 wages to 200,000 workers and advertising gets $30,000,000 a year.

Why We Are Opposing A Government Armor Plant

To the People:

Some people say that the very fact that the Bethlehem Steel Company is so aggressively fighting the proposal to build a Government armor plant is conclusive proof that the Company is seeking to assure for itself the "vast profits" derived from private manufacture.

The fact is that armor making is the least profitable feature of steel manufacture.

The reason we oppose a Government plant is very simple. It is this:

Even though there is but little profit in the making of armor, we have invested over $7,000,000 in our armor plant;

That plant is useless for any other purpose; if a Government plant is built the usefulness of our plant is destroyed.

It would be good business for us to make armor for the Government at any price over and above the actual shop cost, RATHER THAN SACRIFICE OUR ENTIRE INVESTMENT.

We do not seek to save big profits; our purpose is very frankly to save our armor plant—itsself built solely for the use of the Government—from going to the scrap heap.

To do that, we are prepared to agree for any period to any terms of manufacture which the Federal Trade Commission shall say absolutely protects the Government of the United States.

COMPLETES HIS TERM AS BAPTIST PASTOR

REVEREND JOSEPH C. HAZEN
LEAVES JANESVILLE AFTER EIGHT YEARS OF SERVICE.

GOES TO NEW CHARGE

Accepts Pastorate of First Baptist Church of Peoria, Ill., Beginning Work With Wednesday Night Meeting.

Reverend and Mrs. Joseph Chalmers Hazen left Janesville today for Peoria, Ill., where Mr. Hazen has accepted the pastorate of the First Baptist church. Mr. Hazen has completed eight years of successful work in Janesville in which he has won more than the usual share of warm friendships. His work in the Janesville Baptist church has been constructive and permanent, and his labors have extended beyond the confines of his church and congregation so that his influence has been enjoyed in the whole community.

There was a note of regret in Reverend Hazen's farewell remarks, delivered last evening before an audience which filled the church to capacity. In deference to Mr. Hazen the doors of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches were closed so that members of these congregations might be present at the farewell address. He has found his work in Janesville among the people of this city most delightful and the friendships formed made the parting difficult. But the parting he felt was advisable for two reasons, one of which concerned the local church and the other himself. There comes a time in every church, Mr. Hazen said, when it is better than a new man to change. A new voice and new face may be welcomed and new methods of interpreting and spreading the gospel of Christ have perhaps a more telling effect. The second reason for leaving concerned himself, for he felt that a new field might call forth more of his creative spirit and his mettle. New problems and new work would require his undivided attention, giving him an opportunity for further development.

"As for my impressions of Janesville during the last eight years," said Rev. Hazen, "I would say at the outset that Janesville is a conservative city. It is conservative politically, it is conservative commercially, and it is conservative religiously. When I say that I do not mean to criticize in any way. It is merely a way of saying that change comes slowly as a matter of logical growth and development. You cannot find a finer group of business and professional men in any city anywhere than there are in Janesville, and conservative as they are, changes that take place are along lines of improvement and advancement."

"In regard to religious work in Janesville I can say that there exists today a greater spirit of unity, co-operation and harmony than ever existed before. It means an active, effective partnership among the churches and among the people of the churches to the highest tribute that can be given to any community."

A feature of last evening's farewell service was the music, which included songs by a quartet composed of Mrs. Stanley Dunlap, Mrs. Jones, Alfred Olson and Stanley Horwood, a duet by Miss Grace and E. Van Pool and a quartet by C. R. Beattie and E. E. Van Pool. The choir, which included Mr. Hazen's pastorate, had been invited to be present for this occasion and take part in the service.

In accepting the position as minister at the First Baptist church at Peoria, Mr. Hazen goes into a larger field. Peoria is a city of between 70,000 and 80,000 population and there is but one church of the Baptist denomination, which makes the charge an exceptionally important one. In fact, the change is nothing more nor less than a well-earned promotion in recognition of his valuable work, not only in Janesville church and community, but also in the state convention and the northern Baptist convention in both of which he has been prominent as well as with other affairs of the denomination.

Some encouragement was given by the weather man as regards atmospheric conditions tomorrow, Memorial Day. Although cool and cloudy weather is predicted, the forecast is to mention that Tuesday would be featured by rain.

A downpour lasting any length of time would cause an abandonment of all morning and afternoon parade arrangements planned by the Memorial Day committee in connection with the suitable and fitting observance of the day.

It was announced today that if rain fell tomorrow to the extent of necessitating an abandonment of the parade the exercises at the opera house would be held nevertheless.

Each year the graves to be decorated in number and the number of those comrades left to decorate them are growing fewer. Daily the ranks are thinning, but to those few who still remain the nation tomorrow pays tribute and honor.

The day's program calls for the usual ceremonies of the day, during the morning, a big parade at one o'clock and the speaking at the opera house during the afternoon.

Those who are to be followed in detail.

Throughout the Union, Tuesday, speakers with patriotic fervor will deliver the copies of the first orders which inaugurated Memorial Day, those of John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The occasion was first observed in 1868 and has been celebrated annually since that time. The following are the Headquarters, Grand Army of the Republic.

Washington, D. C., May 5, 1868.
General Orders No. 11.

1. The 30th of May, 1868, is designated for the purpose of observing the graves of our heroic dead, who died in defense of their country during the rebellion, and those bodies now lie in almost every city, village and hamlet churchyard in the land. In this observance no form of economy is prescribed, but Posts and Comrades will in their own way arrange such fitting services and testimonials of respect as circumstances may permit.

We are organized, Comrades, as our regulations tell us, "for the purpose of strengthening those kind and fraternal ties which bind together the soldiers, sailors and marines who united to suppress the late rebellion. What can aid more to assure this than by cherishing tenderly the memory of our heroic dead, who made their breasts a barricade between our country and its foes? Their soldier lives were the revell of freedom to the nation in Chains, and their deaths a factor of our liberty and glory in arms. We should guard their graves with a sacred vigilance. All that the consecrated wealth and taste of the nation can do for their adornment and security is but a fitting tribute to the memory of their slain defenders. Let us wanton foot tread rudely on such hallowed grounds. Let pleasant paths in the forest and going of reverent visitors and fond mothers, not ravages of time, testify to the present or to the coming generations that we are a free and undivided people, the cost of which is the blood of our heroes.

If other eyes grow dull and other hands slack, and other hearts cold in solemn trust, ours shall keep it well as long as the light and warmth of life remains to us.

Let us, then, at the time appointed, gather around their sacred remains and guard the holiest of graves above them with the choicest flowers of springtime; let us raise above them the dear old flag they saved from dishonor; let us in this solemn presence of their loved ones pledge to assist those whom they have left among us, a sacred charge upon the nation's gratitude—the soldier's and sailor's widow and orphan.

It is the purpose of the command, in-chief to inaugurate the observance with the hope that it will be kept up from year to year, while a survivor of the war remains to honor the memory of his departed comrades. He earnestly desires the public press to call attention to this order, and lend its friendly aid in bringing it to the notice of comrades in all parts of the country in time for simultaneous compliance therewith.

Department commanders will use every effort to make this order effective.

By command of
JOHN A. LOGAN,
Commander-in-Chief,

Adjutant-general.

ABNER FRED RICE DIES SUDDENLY AT HOSPITAL

This Morning at Mercy Hospital Abner Fred Rice, aged sixty-three years, passed away this morning after a short period of illness of pleural pneumonia at the Mercy hospital. Mr. Rice was born August 26, 1852, in Sherborn, Wilkes-Barre, England, and at the age of thirty-five years he came to the United States and located in Janesville, where he has lived since.

He was united in marriage March 10, 1912, to his deceased wife, Mrs. Margaret Rice, who survives him. He is also survived by two brothers, U. T. Rice of Chicago, and Walter Rice of Abner.

Abner Rice was prominent in the Masonic and Odd Fellow lodge circles and has many friends who mourn his departure. For the past eight years he has been the superintendent of the Oak Hill cemetery. The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at two-thirty o'clock and the Rev. Brigham will officiate. Interment will be made in the Oak Hill cemetery. The Masonic order will have charge of the funeral.

Some encouragement was given by the weather man as regards atmospheric conditions tomorrow, Memorial Day. Although cool and cloudy weather is predicted, the forecast is to mention that Tuesday would be featured by rain.

A downpour lasting any length of time would cause an abandonment of all morning and afternoon parade arrangements planned by the Memorial Day committee in connection with the suitable and fitting observance of the day.

It was announced today that if rain fell tomorrow to the extent of necessitating an abandonment of the parade the exercises at the opera house would be held nevertheless.

Each year the graves to be decorated in number and the number of those comrades left to decorate them are growing fewer. Daily the ranks are thinning, but to those few who still remain the nation tomorrow pays tribute and honor.

The day's program calls for the usual ceremonies of the day, during the morning, a big parade at one o'clock and the speaking at the opera house during the afternoon.

AT THE APOLLO.

Lenore Ulrich, "The Heart of Paula." The atmosphere of warm flower-scented nights, of tinkling music, of deeds of daring to win a lady's glance, scenes of intense hate and strong passion are all blended in a fascination that entrances in the coming Pallas picture released on the Paramount program and to be seen at the Apollo theatre on Wednesday.

This story of the burning love of a Spanish maid for a handsome American, stars Lenore Ulrich who is entrancingly beautiful as the high-born Castilian made poor by the unsettled times.

The strong action and many scenes of daily life in this exotic country with its ever present blend of romance and squalor give this strong picture a charm very unusual.

AT BEVERLY THEATRE.

The Little Gypsy Tells a Story of Touching Beauty and Romance. A story of touching beauty and stirring romance is unfolded in "The Little Gypsy," a stupendous William Fox production, dramatized by Walter Dare, the well-known novelist, which will be presented at the Beverly on Tuesday. Tender love interest alternates with scenes of elemental power showing the clash of strong human natures and the primordial passions of men and women.

Few plays have ever found their way so thoroughly into the hearts of the American public as has "The Little Gypsy" as pictured for William Fox with an elaborate attention to detail and careful direction which places it in a class by itself in the silent drama. The original stage production was hailed by critics the country wide as a distinct event in the drama and marking an epoch in the art of the theatre. The metropolitan newspapers devoted a literal mile of space to describing this delightful work of the great English wordmaster, Walter Dare, and it drew millions to see it presented upon the stage. With all the enhanced opportunities for scenic display and dramatic action afforded by the photo-dramatic version it is safe to say that "The Little Gypsy" is one of the greatest and most universally appealing of any of the screen plays so far presented by William Fox and this is high praise indeed.

AT THE APOLLO.

Victor Moore and Anita King Tonight. Some of the accidents which occur in the Jesse L. Lasky production of the thrilling automobile story of "The Race," which will be seen at the Apollo tonight, were taken in the exact locality in which they happened to Anita King, The Paramount Girl, on whose famous transcontinental automobile trip the story is founded. The credit of being the first woman to ever cross the continent in an automobile absolutely alone belongs to Miss King, who is supporting Victor Moore, the famous comedian in this thrilling photodrama.

ANITA KING, THE FIRST WOMAN TO CROSS THE CONTINENT ALONE IN AN AUTOMOBILE, WHO WILL BE SEEN WITH VICTOR MOORE TONIGHT IN "THE RACE" AT THE APOLLO.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Annette Kellerman's film play made in Jamaica is to be released early in June. This is the play that was eight months in the market and is said to have cost $1,000,000. Rome is the scene in the prologue of this fantasy. A little girl has a canary she idolizes. She releases her bird that it may join a sparrow in the yard. The sparrow is killed and the heart broken canary flies out to sea and dies on the waves. The little girl dies of grief. Sunrise on the beach. Mermaids are swimming out from the shore, taking with them a baby mermaid, which is a spirit form of the little girl who died. The sparrow, transformed by a fairy, becomes a youth. The canary becomes a maid. The maid is Annette Kellerman. That starts the story, which later becomes a spectacle full of battle scenes, in which crowds take part.

BESSIE BARRISCALE IN "THE SORROW OF LOVE" Bessie Barriscale is to be seen in "The Sorrow of Love," a picture which will serve to introduce several radical departures in production. Miss Barriscale plays the role of a sister in a convent, where she is known as "The Lily." The plot required Italian locale, and revolves about the efforts of the sister to learn the ways of the world. The cameraman in charge of filming this picture worked out a new lighting device which is used in "The Sorrow of Love" for the first time. The device makes possible realistic effects with candle lamp, the sun, in the case of using a candle the flame lights only the face of the person who is carrying it, and not the entire setting. Supporting Miss Barriscale in this picture in the leading role is William Desmond, and other members of the cast are Ora Carew, Marshall Mayall and Wedgwood Nowell.

For the first time in five years Lionel Barrymore who has been in pictures for several years and been photographed thousands of times, sat for a regular photograph at the studio. Says Mr. Barrymore: "There is never excuse for a man having his photograph taken," in which sentiment he is not shared by Mr. Bushman.

THE KELLY COMPANY IN CLOSING SHOW

Sherman Kelly Co. Presents Two Rousing Comedy Farces at Myers Theatre in Concluding Their Engagement in This City.

After a week's stay here in Jamesville, and practicing nine as good stock shows as have been seen here for a long time, Mr. Sherman Kelly and company made their farewell bow to the Myers theatre audience last night in the form of a sparkling comedy farce, "The High Cost of Living." Displaying the entire company in their most liked character parts, it was just the sort of a bill that could not help but leave a good impression in the minds of all who appreciate good, clean, snappy entertainment.

Although Mr. Kelly was not shown a rousing welcome in his first visit here, it was found that the people who came the first evening still continued to view the remaining plays and seemed to be, to all appearances, well satisfied with their time and money spent. Mr. Kelly has shown himself an actor of no mean ability, and his entire company has supported him in the most creditable manner. In the vaudeville specialties the Kelly Stock company is fortunate in possessing the Le Grande sisters, who appear in sketches as amusing as one could wish to see. The winsome trio seem to put their whole soul into their work of entertainment and fully deserved the hearty applause which they were given in their cleverly arranged singing and dancing numbers.

Nish, Serbia, May 29.—Huge supplies of medicine furnished the Serbs long ago by the Italians, and found here by the Bulgarians recently, on examination been declared to be badly falsified—so badly as to be absolutely worthless as medicines. Five hundred quinine tablets, for instance, proved to contain no trace of quinine; other "medicines" supposed to contain various ingredients were found to possess little more than magnesia and chalk; disinfectant tablets labeled as containing specific quantities of certain chemicals proved to have only a small percentage of the labeled disinfectants.

Heart and Home PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson. (4) Kindly tell me how to go about getting a divorce. Must I engage a lawyer first, or whom must I see? My husband treats me shamefully. I do not want a divorce on account of the children, but I cannot stand a nervous wreck now. He hardly ever speaks to me. He never takes me anywhere and goes alone all the time. If I want to talk to him about things, he tells me he is not doing right or anything like that. He swears at me and acts like a madman. He is so extremely selfish and yet to hear him would think he is a much abused man. He gives a pretty fair salary and supports me. I do not want him, but I would like a little consolation. I work hard—do all my own work—and I do everything I know of to make it a happy home. Please advise me what to do. I am not willing to give up my children. Don't you think I would get them?

(5) Also, please tell me if it is customary to give presents to your friends' sons and daughters who are graduating. If so, what is most appropriate? (6) I would like to see a divorce lawyer, but one who will give you disinterested advice. (7) The judge would decide who could keep the children. Something they are divided between the husband and wife. I have no idea whether you would be given custody of them or not. (8) It is not necessary to give graduation presents to the sons and daughters of friends, but it is often done. Books make very good presents. Personal gifts for girls are good, such as something you have embroidered, a handkerchief, a slipper or sewing bag. Dear Mrs. Thompson: (7) What is a good bleach for tan? (8) Every spring I am troubled with hives. Can you tell me what to do for this? (9) Put half a pint of rich milk into a porcelain kettle and bring it to a boil. Strain carefully and add one quart of an ounce of strained onion juice. Remove from the heat and pour in one-half ounce of white brandy. Bottle when cold, and apply to the face at night with a soft cloth, letting the mixture stay on all night. Wipe the face again in the morning after washing. (10) Try the sulphur and molasses tonic to purify your blood. This taken by many persons every spring. For this tonic the formula consists of a paste of sulphur and molasses, cream of tartar to the amount of a pinch being added to each teaspoonful of the mixture. Take one teaspoonful three times a day for three days, then another three doses on three consecutive days. Then come another three doses for three days, and then a final dose the next three, making nine in all.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am troubled with an itchy skin all the year around and it is especially bad in summer. What can I do? There is usually an inward cause for the condition, such as indigestion. If no material effect is gained by the following treatment, it would be well to consult a physician. Apply the following treatment: (1) Wash the face with a solution of zinc, two grains; compound tincture of lavender, eight drops; distilled water, one ounce. (2) Banish all rich and greasy foods, for these are the greatest cause of the condition of the skin. Wiping off the face occasionally with diluted alcohol (25 per cent strength) is beneficial in the case of an itchy skin. A few drops of ammonia or a little of the same mixed with water with which the face is washed is also helpful.

BE A VEGETARIAN

It stands to reason that the writer of this daily department of disabusement is not the busiest practitioner in town. It takes some time to run the department, but at that, the worst name that can happen to a mediocre doctor is to acquire a large practice. For when he gets to the point where he is "going right and day" the doctor is sure to be mostly backward as far as his professional equipment and education is concerned. A doctor who has to "see" thirty patients in two hours is not likely to give each patient the same attention he would give ten patients in the same time, being a human, so to speak, being. A good many things that are set forth in this department are, say, ten years ahead of the profession as an average. No. Not boasting. But it takes about ten years for the newer methods and the latest discoveries of medicine to get to the average or mediocre doctor. A doctor who is mediocre is a perfectly reliable adviser, provided he is also careful enough to accept a good thought, regardless of its source. Possibly the unknown young right around the corner knows more medical science and has more actual ability than any of the given men you know as successful physicians. But that young fellow's skill is not for you. You are afraid of him—he is too young and he has no reputation. His skill is for the people who will give him a try-out after fifteen years hence—it takes about fifteen years for people to recognize medical skill that way.

Well, this isn't saying what we set out to say. Quer how a typewriter sidetracks one's thoughts. Machines mean, not the stenographer. Business of blusing. Here is a general conclusion we have developed out of several miles of reading. It comes as sort of a composite suggestion from the best medical authorities of the day. It is the inevitable trend of all recent progress in medicine. It will be common property ten years hence, when the profession as a body will be advocating it. If you want to be well, and live long, and have lots of "pep" and maintain an optimism and endurance, and avoid many of the miseries and major ills of civilized humanity, and amount to something in the world—be a vegetarian. You needn't break your neck being a vegetarian, you don't have to make an enemy of the butcher, you can break off by degrees, over a period of two or three months, say taking less and less meat and more and more varieties of vegetables, fruits, cereals, until finally you find yourself living the happy life without any of the old savage craving for flesh. If you feel that you can't be a vegetarian, then be as much a vegetarian as you can. You will realize that one's wife, husband, cook, hired man or landlady has something to say about it. But anyway, know that meat is a fine food to do without.

The doctor passes 100 Per Cent. My sister had an attack of rheumatism and the doctor kept hot water bottles applied to her head—was that right? 2. She was operated on, and go out—was that right? 3. Later she had neuritis in the right arm, and the doctor insisted on her staying in bed—was that right? 4. He ordered every kind of food for her—was that right? He says the neuritis is never fatal, and he allows her to have visitors when she wants them—is that right? Answer—It is all right, and so is the doctor, and undoubtedly your sister soon will be.

TWO MUCH SCHOOLING
CAUSES DEGENERATION
OF YOUNG IN JAPAN
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Tokio, May 29.—Street cars, too much schooling and too little exercise are the causes of a deterioration in the physical condition of the younger generation of Japan, according to the views of Colonel K. Okudaira, commander of a Tokyo regimental district. Basing his judgment on the results of recent conscription examinations at Tokio, the officer says he finds indisputable evidence of a decline in the health of the young men of the country, especially of the metropolitan area. "The health decline is becoming a serious national problem," declared Colonel Okudaira. He said that while the results of conscription examinations for last year were not worse than for 1914, they were far worse than those for 1913, and that on the whole the physical condition of the young men in Japan is deteriorating year by year. He added: "Tokio is the worst of all parts of the empire in matters of health. This is partly due to the developments of the means of transportation. The increase of tramways means that the people do not get enough exercise."

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
Before Working in the Garden, or doing other rough work, rub your fingers over a piece of soap. This will prevent the skin from getting under the nails and when you wash your hands the soap will come out easily. This is recommended to people who find it hard to do garden work with gloves on their hands. Scrapbook Made From the Pictures in Seed Catalogs.—This will not only amuse children, but also teach them the names of common vegetables and flowers. After lists are made up, catalogs are often discarded. The pictures of vegetables may be carefully cut out and arranged in groups either on cards or in a blank book and flowers treated in the same way.

THE TABLE.
Date Pudding.—One cup dates cut in small pieces, one cup English walnuts cut in small pieces, one teaspoon baking powder, two eggs beaten separately, three-fourths cup granulated sugar, three tablespoons flour (heaping), one-eighth teaspoon salt, melted butter, one cup sugar, one teaspoon vanilla, four cups baking powder, then vanilla, then whites of eggs beaten stiff, then add dates and nuts. Bake in a loaf or square pan thirty to forty minutes. Serve with whipped cream.

Peanut Rolls.—Mix and sift together: two cups white flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup peanut butter, one-half cup cold water; stir into ingredients and roll three-fourths inch dough. Cut out and bake fifteen or twenty minutes.

Horseradish Sauce.—One cup grated horseradish, one and one-half cups milk, one teaspoon butter, one-half cup sugar (less as you like it). Place or fire and when brought to boiling point thicken with a little paste made of flour and water, let cook for a few minutes. Serve hot.

Spinach (broom of the stomach).—In cooking spinach never put water in the pot. Wash the vegetable thoroughly and put over a low fire. It will create sufficient water to cook itself and its virtues will not be thrown in the pot. Less salt should be put in when boiled in this way. Spinach is particularly valuable for women all run down. It is rich in iron. To eat the vegetable once or twice a day means taking iron in a natural way instead of the form of a drug.

Strawberry Fluff.—One box strawberries, two eggs whites, one and one-quarter cups sugar, few grains salt, three tablespoons cornstarch. Hull berries, crush and combine with one cup of the sugar; let stand at least an hour. Then strain off one and one-half cups of juice and bring to boil. Beat eggs whites and add a little cornstarch, sugar and salt. Add a little of the hot juice, combine the two mixtures and let boil till a thick paste is formed. It should cook at least fifteen minutes. Beat egg whites and pour in cornstarch mixture, cooking constantly. Turn into a mold wet with cold water and let stiffen. Serve with the crushed fruit at the base.

Orange Cranberry Sauce.—To the juice and pulp of six oranges (strain off all ski ad membrae) add the juice of one lemon, one cup sugar and a pint of water. Freeze as sherbet and serve after with the meat course.

Sponge Cake Lemon Pie.—One cup sugar, one tablespoon flour; stir together; juice and grated rind of one lemon, yolks of two eggs, one cup milk. Stir the whites (beaten stiff) in lightly. Place in a greased pan, crust and bake slowly three-fourths hour. The upper half will be like sponge cake, the remainder like lemon pie.

LINEN SHOES FASHIONABLE IN VIENNA THIS SUMMER
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Vienna, May 29.—Linen shoes have become the fashion for spring and summer in Vienna this year, on account of the confiscation of the leather supplies for military purposes. The new linen shoes are being made in light colors, white, light brown and light green, and vary in other shades. They are said to be very comfortable and cost but three dollars a pair, as compared with the eight dollars at which leather shoes are now priced.

GINGLES' JINGLES LUCKY WE.
She has gone, she has departed, in our midst she's missing now—moved away, has beat it yonder, we have not heard when or how, but we've missed her, but not mourned her, for we're glad she beat it hence; we are pleased beyond expression, for she had us on the fence. She sure had us guessing somewhat, had us worried and all in, when we said goodbye we almost pressed a kiss upon her, had she stuck she'd had us hating o'er those old immortal hills, we would have been powdered finely pulverized within her mills. We were going limp and sideways, in the market for a prop, when the downs and outs, they'd gather, we'd been lated in the crop; but she's gone, she has departed, of this ample proof we hold—the subscriptions to our paper have increased a hundred fold. Yes, we're pleased she up and left us, very glad she beat it hence, people now will read our locals, and we'll come down, let's hope, come down off the fence. —L. H. Gingles

Marrying a Butterfly

By MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ralph Concludes That No Reasonable Methods Will Restore Ethel's Cheerfulness.
"There are very pleasant people and I am mighty glad we ran into them. Ralph, looking after the big touring car that was speeding down the road in its cloud of dust. 'Well, I am not in surprise at this spiteful remark from his wife. 'If I do not care to be pitted by those women,' Ethel wiped her eyes. 'Pitted?' Ralph faced her in astonishment. 'Oh, I could see it. Of course they pitted any one who rode in an old car of a buggy, when everybody worth while has a machine. I was tapped impatiently on the ground with her foot. 'Oh, come, Ethel, have some sense.' Ralph's tone was unmistakably angry. 'Nobody's going to get the best of such thoughts and they are not snobs, or I am much mistaken. You can't see your face in this buggy, but it is a very respectable affair for a town livery supply. 'Town livery!' echoed Ethel disdainfully. 'It surely looks like the back woods. It will not be long before we shall look equally rural.' Ralph's face spoke extreme irritation as he turned to pack the basket and rugs under the seat.

"And their dress was so perfectly suitable for a motor trip," continued Ethel discontentedly. "Well, I suggested that you change your dress, but you thought it too much trouble," added bitterly. Ethel climbed into the buggy and seated herself as far away from her husband as possible. Ralph drove on in stony silence. "I wish they had accepted our invitation to stay all night. I am proud of our house; that is really beautiful. A half inaudible snort was Ralph's only answer. "I think it would be pleasant to accept their invitation and visit them some time. Kansas City seems a very pleasant city," began Ethel after a long pause. "Oh, they might pity you," sneered Ralph. "I would not place myself in a position to be pitted." "Of course I should see that every thing about my clothes was strictly up to date," Ethel replied with a toss of the head. "Nothing more was said till Ralph helped her to alight at the door, when Ethel suggested that he bring home some ice cream when he came. Ralph nodded indifferently and climbed in and drove away. "I certainly will be a fool if I ever do anything to make things pleasant for her," he reflected bitterly. "The more she gets, the more she gets. I thought this little outing would cheer her up, but it seems that I got in worse than usual this time. Who ever could have dreamed that she would feel this way about a livery supply. The utter failure of his plan to restore Ethel to cheerfulness weighed heavily on Ralph's spirits. It was with a heavy heart that he started for home with his ice cream. (To be continued.)

GERMAN WOMAN PETITION TO STOP WOMEN WEARING FASHIONS SMUGGLED IN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Cologne, May 29.—Disappointed that both personal and official pleas and warnings have had little or no effect, the Woman's Alliance of Cologne and thirty-five associated women's associations and organizations have petitioned the governor of the fortress to issue a decree forbidding the wearing of high heeled shoes, wide-flaring, short skirts and other apparel that has been smuggled in from countries at war with Germany or that is patently a copy of foreign mode and fashion. "It shows a lack of patriotism and is a disgrace for German women," says the petition in part. "That many of them go about in clothing which by its striking, frivolous nature mocks the earnest sentiment that rules among the people at this time of manifold need and severe personal suffering." The petition declares that luxury of a noticeable sort in clothing is not only an insult to the unfortunate, and an unworthy of the German women at this time. "Since all the pleas of sensible thinking people, as well as the official cautions, have been without result," concludes the petition, "we ask the governor to issue decrees against the above named evils."

THE WAY WE SAY IT

A friend who knows theatrical people told me this interesting incident the other day. Two theatrical people connected with a certain play were listening behind the scenes to the applause at the end of the act. "It isn't so much what the actors say as the way they use their voices that brings the applause. I'll wager I can go before the audience and say something entirely unconnected with the play and get a hand." The other took him up, and at the end of the act the actor went before the curtain and in a tone of one saying something of great emotional import, and with a lift of his voice at the end, said, "White is black and black is white."

And the audience clapped. THEY RESPONDED TO THE VOICE. "It was the inflection," that got them," said the actor, "that and the open vowel at the end. If I had said, 'black is white and white is black,' they wouldn't have clapped." If that incident is true (no reflection on my friend intended) it is an interesting example of the power of voice and inflection, isn't it? Few people realize how much meaning tone and inflection carry. I want to see a remarkable instance of a volume condensed into one single word, take out your Bible and look up John 1:16 and try to imagine the inflection with which the two words in that verse must have been spoken.

Voices are wonderful things, aren't they? And not the least wonderful thing is that they are infinitely more flexible and capable of improvement than many other things—features, for instance. "The telephone company has discovered that the word 'please' repeated several million times a year delays messages and really costs a lot of money. So the operators now inquire, 'Please, please, please.' But they are under rigid instructions to say it in a rising inflection on the second syllable, which gives a cheerful chirp sound to the inquiry, whereas the word with a falling inflection at the last syllable, 'please,' makes it sound as if the operator is bored with her job. Moreover, the big telephone companies in hiring a girl insist, that she must have a pretty voice."

When You Want Something Particularly Nice— You can always depend upon K C not to disappoint you. The double raise makes doubly certain—nothing is left to "luck." If the batter is a little thin, K C will raise it light and feathery and it will be all the better. Faring the stove or turning the pan around makes no difference—K C sustains the raise until baked. When there's a birthday or wedding cake to bake, or refreshments for reception or party to provide, take no chances— Use K C

A Novel By

Conquest of Canaan,"
"Penrod," etc.

"I'm Cured, Father," He Said.

no fool's job nowadays—a man's got to have eyes in the back of his head. You hear talk, sometimes, 'd'ntake you think the millennium had come—but right the next breath you'll hear somebody hollerin' about 'the great unrest.' You bet there's a 'great unrest.' There ain't any man alive smart enough to see what it's goin' to do to us in the end, nor what day it's got set to bust loose, but it's troilin' and bubblin' in the boiler. 'This country's been fillin' up with it from all over the world for a good many years, and the old campteenin' days are dead and done with. Church ain't what it used to be. Nothin's what it used to be—everything's turned up from the bottom, and the growth is so big the roots stick out in the air. There's an awful racket goin' on, and you got to keep hoppin' if you're goin' to keep your balance on the top of it. And the schemers! They run like bugs on the bottom of a board—after any piece of money they hear is loose. Fool schemes and crooked schemes; the fool ones are the most and the worst! You got to fight to keep your money after you've made it. And the woods are full of mighty industrious men that's only got one motto: 'Get the other fellow's money before he gets yours.' And when a man's built as I have, when he's built good and strong, and made good things grow and prosper—those are the fellows that by for a chance to slide in and sneak the benefit of it and put their names to it! And what's the use my havin' ever been born, if such a thing as that is goin' to happen? What's the use my havin' worked my life and soul into my business, if it's all goin' to be dispersed and scattered soon as I'm in the ground?"

He strode up and down the long room, gesticulating—little regarding the troubled and drowsy figure by the fireside. His throat rumbled thunderously; the words came with stormy bitterness. "You think this is a time for young men to be lyin' on beds of ease? I tell you there never was such a time before; there never was such opportunity. The sluggard is doin' spoiled while he sleeps—yes, by George! If a man lays down they'll cut him before he wakes!—but the live man can build straight up till he touches the sky! This is the business man's day! It used to be the soldier's day and the statesman's day, but this is ours! And it ain't a Sunday to go fishin'—it's a Sunday to go to work, and you got to go out and live it and breathe it and make it yourself, or you'll only be a dead man walkin' around dreamin' you're alive. And that's what my son Bibbs has been doin' all his life, and what he'd rather do now than go out and do his part by me. And if anything happens to Roscoe—"

"Oh, do stop worryin' over such nonsense," Mrs. Sheridan interrupted, irritated into sharp wakefulness for the moment. "There ain't anything goin' to happen to Roscoe, and you're just tormentin' yourself about nothin'. Aren't you ever goin' to bed?"

Sheridan halted. "All right, mamma," he said, with a vast sigh. "Let's go up." And he snapped off the electric light, leaving only the rosy glow of the fire.

"Did you speak to Roscoe?" she yawned, rising lopsidedly in her drowsiness. "Did you mention about what I told you the other evening?"

"No. I will tomorrow."

But Roscoe did not come downtown the next day, nor the next; nor did Sheridan see fit to enter his son's house. He waited. Then, on the fourth day of the month, Roscoe walked into his father's office at nine in the morning, when Sheridan happened to be alone.

"They told me downstairs you'd left word you wanted to see me," Sheridan said, rising.

Roscoe sat. His father walked close to him, sniffed suspiciously, and then walked away, smiling bitterly. "Bolt!" he exclaimed. "Bolt at it!"

"Yes," said Roscoe. "I've had a couple of drinks this morning. What about it?"

"I reckon I better adopt some decent young man," his father returned. "I'd bring Bibbs up here and put him in your place if he was fit. I would!"

"Better do it," Roscoe assented, sullenly.

"When'd you begin this thing?"

"I always did drink a little. Ever since I grew up, that is."

"Leave that talk out! You know what I mean."

"Well, I don't know as I ever had too much in office hours—until the other day."

Sheridan began cutting. "It's a lie. I've had Ray Willis up from your office. He didn't want to give you away, but I put the books into him, and he came through. You were drunk twice before and couldn't work. You been leavin' your office for drinks every few hours for the last three weeks. I been over your books. Your office is way behind. You haven't done any work, to count, in a month."

Roscoe's head was sunk between his shoulders. "I can't stand very much talk about it, father," he said, pleadingly.

"No!" Sheridan cried. "Neither can I! What do you think it means to me?" He dropped into the chair at his big desk, growling. "I can't stand to talk about it any more; you can't listen, but I'm goin' to find out what's the matter with you, and I'm goin' to straighten you out!"

Roscoe shook his head helplessly. "You can't straighten me out."

"See here!" said Sheridan. "Can you go back to your office and stay sober today, while I get my work done, or will I have to hire a couple of hussies to follow you around and knock the whisky out of your hand if they see you tryin' to take it?"

"You needn't worry about that," said Roscoe, looking up with a faint resentment. "I'm not drinking because I've got a thirst."

"Well, what have you got?"

"Nothing. Nothing you can do anything about. Nothing, I tell you."

"We'll see about that!" said Sheridan, harshly. "Now I can't fool with you today, and you get up out of that chair and get out of my office. You bring your wife to dinner tomorrow. You didn't come last Sunday—but you come tomorrow. I'll talk this out with you when the women-folks are workin' the phonograph, after dinner. Can you keep sober till then? You better be sure, because I'm goin' to send Abercrombie down to your office every little while, and he'll let me know."

Roscoe paused at the door. "You told Abercrombie about it?" he asked.

"Told him!" And Sheridan laughed hideously. "Do you suppose there's an elevator boy in the whole dam' building that ain't on to you?"

Roscoe settled his hat down over his eyes and went out.

Dinner Stories

"The average woman seems to think it is beneath her dignity to carry a spoon of thread home from the store when she goes shopping."

"Very true, but she makes up for it by lugging a great heavy dog in her arms wherever she goes."

A certain dealer had a lot of cheese which was anything but good, and tired of seeing it about, told the assistant when he closed the shop to leave one of the condemned cheeses at the door for someone to walk off with. Thomas occasionally crept to a window to watch operations, and at length went to his master, grinning all over his face, saying the cheese was gone.

"Leave another out tomorrow night!" was the master's order, which was obeyed by the shopman, who, after a few peeps next evening, walked to his master in the counting house, scratching his head and looking as though some great disappointment had befallen him.

"Is it gone?" asked the dealer.

"No, sir; that other 'un has walked back!"

David Lloyd George, the British minister of munitions, was the idol of the trade union classes before the war, and he will probably be their idol again after the war, but just now, on account of his advocacy of conscription, he is under a cloud.

Henry Taylor, the British consul at Duluth, said of Lloyd George the other day:

"If he's unpopular now it's because he was so very popular before. His case is like that of the young lady. 'What makes Marie so disliked?' one girl asked another.

"Why, don't you know? The other answered, 'She got the most votes at the bazaar for being popular.'"

Metals Free From Bacteria.

As it has been uncertain whether bacteria can exist on such metals as copper and silver, Natonok and Reimann of Czernowitz, have made an interesting test. Perfectly clean coins were placed on a plate of nutrient gelatine for several hours, and after their removal bacteria were sown over the plate. The spot where each coin had lain, with a narrow border around it, remained free from the growth that spread over the rest of the plate.

CHAPTER XIX.

When he came into the new house, a few minutes later, he found his father sitting alone by the library fire.

Bibbs went in and stood before him. "I'm cured, father," he said. "When do I go back to the shop? I'm ready."

The dejected and grim old man did not relax. "I was sittin' up to give you a last chance to say something like that. I reckon it's about time I just wanted to see if you'd have muched enough not to make me take you over there by the collar. Last night I made up my mind I'd give you one more day. Well, you got to it before I did—pretty close to the ground, huh? All right. Start in to-morrow. It's the first of the month. Think you can get up in time?"

"Six o'clock," Bibbs responded briskly. "And I want to tell you—I'm goin' in a cheerful spirit. As you said I'll go and I'll like it."

"That's your lookout!" his father returned. "They'll put you back on the shop machine. You get nine dollars a week."

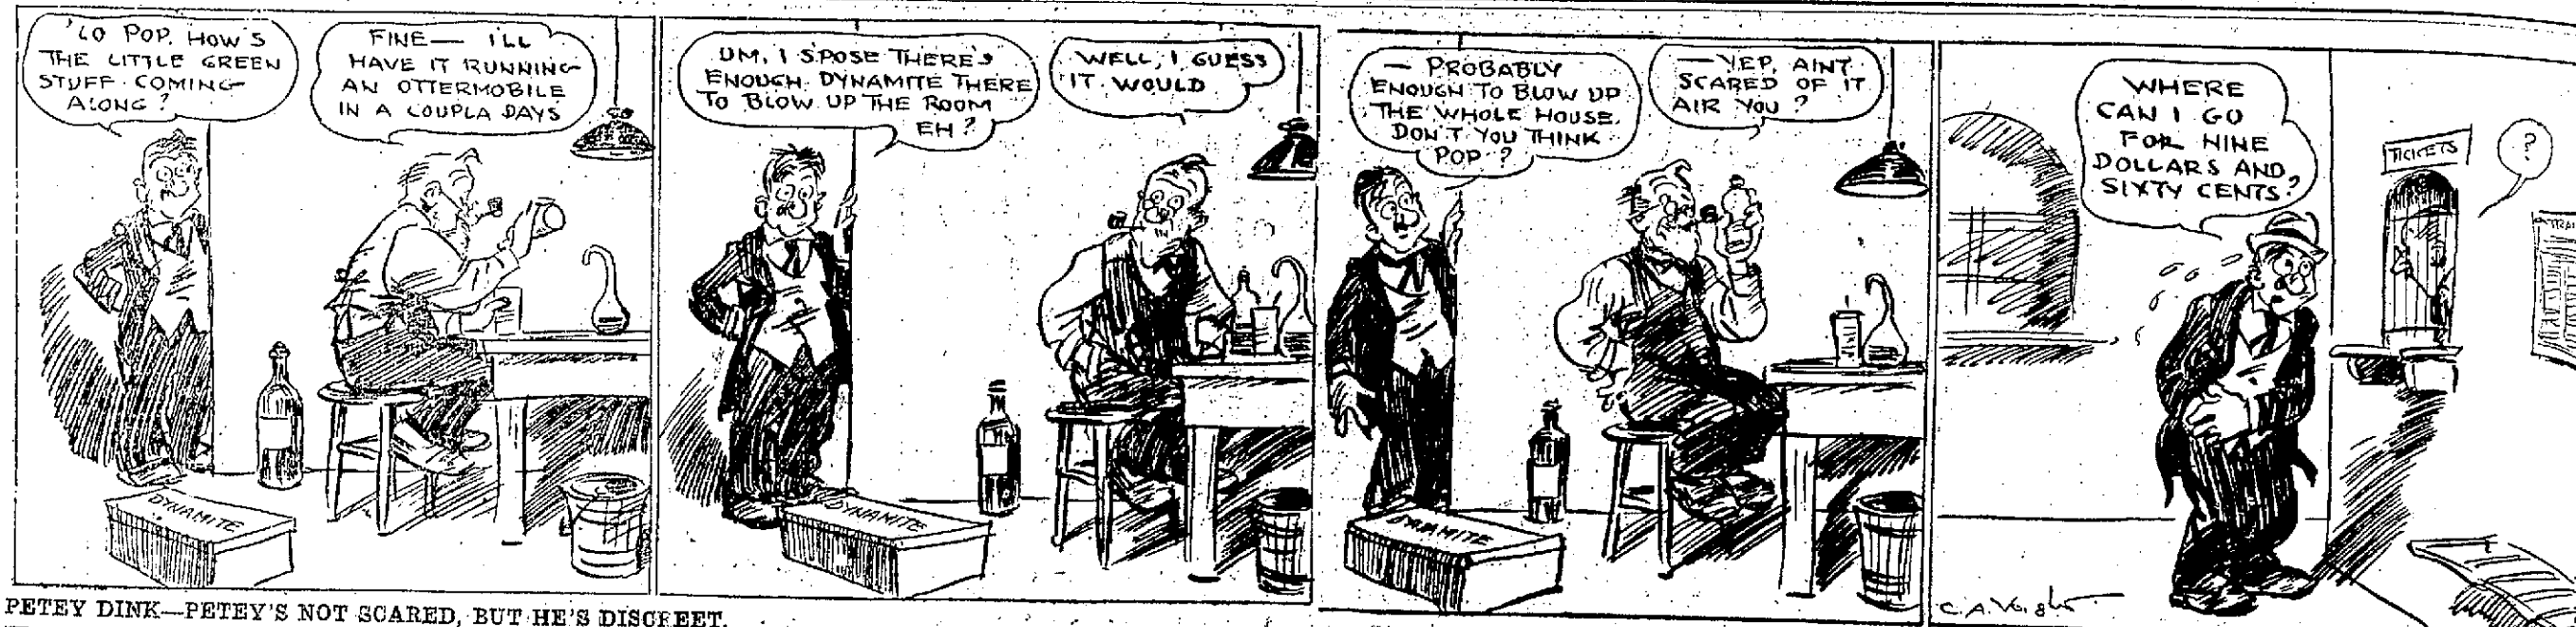

"More than I'm worth, too," said Bibbs cheerfully. "That reminds me, I didn't mean you by 'Midas' in that sentence I'd been writing. I meant—"

"Midas is a hell of a lot of difference, what you mean?"

"I just wanted you to know," Good said, father.

CHEESY GAME WON BY CHICAGO GREYS SHOWING UP CARDS

Hurry-up Call For New Players Including A Short Stop, Third Baseman and A Catcher.

Janesville's allotted ball team were shown-up so badly Sunday afternoon at the Association park, by the Chicago Greys, who won 13 to 4, that today only four of the players remained on the Cardinals' roster. The rest were landed passports to parts unknown for their performance yesterday. It is doubtful whether they could be classified as ball players.

The Cardinals were like the White Sox during the losing streak. They could not make a play without doing it wrong, and as for fielding, the Janesville Red Sox never booted so many balls, made as many "bonches," or passed on plays as did the Cardinals, when they were playing in the graded school league. The day was perfect for the ball game and there was a good attendance on hand, over six hundred, who expected to see the Cardinals show some positive ability instead of negative.

The only alibi that can be advanced is that "the players had an off day." But the fielding was worse than the hitting, and there was about as much cohesion between the players in the dark innings as between the German and British soldiers before Verdun. The Chicago Greys played better ball than they did last year and had the game sewed up in the fifth inning. They had three runs to the Cardinals, and as for their batting, a very careful consideration of the game, will show that the Greys earned just one run during the nine innings.

For the Cardinals' Ingalls and McGloin started as the battery. Ingalls did not pitch brilliant ball, but at least, with support, he could have made a game of it. They did not hit Ingalls much harder than the Cardinals hit Carson but the infield "bloomed" the game away. Manager Caldwell expressed disgust at the game and this morning left for Chicago. "I am going to get Red Ormsby and Delaney, a new short, a third baseman and an outfielder," he said. It is certain Boose will do for third base. Ruth and Ripley at short, booted about every ball that came down their alley, but Ruth is a pitcher and was put in the infield because he is a hitter. O'Haver at first may be a player for one of his boots was excusable, but he has a record as a leaguer. The two players who will stick are Miller, the little center fielder, and Denny Blake at second. Olson, the Beloit fielder, can play the sublimely post in finished style but his hitting is weak. McGloin, the new catcher, is billed to be among those absent for he uncorked a couple of plays Sunday that would have made Ring Roddy blush with shame.

The Cheesy Game of the week, the best, The Greys got the jump the first inning when with two down, Ruth threw wild to first and allowed Ingalls to reach second. Ingalls pitched a "groover" to Blair who singled scoring the run. In the third inning the Greys repeated. Ruth also paved the way for this tally. He booted on a double between third and the pitcher's box. Ingalls took the baby hit and had all the time in the world to start a double play, but he threw six miles over the first baseman's head. The run counted on a squeeze play when Boose failed to get the man at home on an easy chance.

The Cardinals took a new lease of life in the third. Ruth walked and Ingalls hit into a double play. It looked easy for the Greys. McGloin was given a pass to first and O'Haver slammed out a hit. Wee Willie Miller then pounded out a whistling double scoring two. In rounding second Miller saw that the third baseman had left his cushion to recover a throw and he started for the bag. O'Malley, their third sacker, tossed the ball ahead of Hybert, their short, and he was running to head off Miller. The ball rolled past the sack and Miller got a fluke homerun, placing the Cardinals in a one run lead.

The Greys completed the slaughter in the fifth and did the thing right. Boose made a one-hand stab of a Ross' grounder, making a pretty stop and peg, making it one out. Carson was safe on an error by O'Haver at first. That started the riot. Hybert was safe on a fielder's choice when

The days of Sam Crawford: as an outfielder are numbered. Detroit's great batsman at present is on the bench and being used as a pinch hitter. There is small chance that he'll ever return to the outfield as a regular. The reasons are that his throwing arm isn't as good as it was and he has slowed up as a runner.

But Crawford will be useful to the Tigers for several years to come. He can play first base or he can serve as pinch hitter. Four times lately Jennings has sent him to bat in a pinch and four times he has delivered. It would require two hits at one time to improve on that average. George V. is batting well for the Detroit, but he is a little out of the bag any time a change is considered advisable.

"Sam can hit as well as he ever did," said Jennings. "His eye is as good as ever. While he has slowed up for an outfielder, he can play first base, where slowing up isn't noticed as much as in the outfield. Crawford isn't any slower than Fournier, body ever accused him of being too slow to play first base. He can play first base because he has played it and he has three or four years of valuable service ahead of him."

Crawford is one of several cases which go to show that the eye retains its strength longer than the arm used in playing baseball. More than one famous hitter of the game has been able to punish the apple, again, on one pill with undiminished skill after legs and arms have begun to peter out.

Harry McCook can hit as well right now as he ever could, drive the ball viciously, and so can Dick Donlin, Arthur Devlin, Jos Kelly, John McGloin and in all probability, baseball's greatest straightaway hitter, Adrian C. Anson, old as he is.

Manager Clarence Rowland of the White Sox expects his ball team to do much better from this time on. "We have been going unsatisfactorily, but the luck has been against us," he said. "Our hitting has been hard, but we have been hitting right at someone in nearly every game and this has been a great handicap. Pitchers are going good now and ought to win a lot of games. We are by no means out of the running, and I will be in the hunt before very long. We are sure to be up in the race by the time the warm weather sets in."

"Big Dan" Griner, who for several years was a pitcher on the St. Louis National league team, has been released to the St. Paul club. "Big Dan" had a lot of stuff but he could acquire no confidence in himself, consequently he was of no value to the club. He is to be experimented with by the St. Paul club, but there is no assurance that he will be of any more value to that club than he was to the Cardinals.

Many keen critics of baseball cannot understand why Bill Donovan does not make a regular place in the outfield for Paddy Bauman. "It is almost certain that the sturdy substitute would outthrust either Gilhooley or High."

The trotting season of 1916 promises more sensational speed and a greater number of dazzling contests than any previous racing season has produced.

This condition does not arise merely from an increase in stake and purse offerings, but comes about because of the phenomenal number of closely matched horses possessing extreme speed which have been named in the various stakes clear through the circuit. Never before in the long history of harness racing have so many great horses been in sight.

The circuit for 1916 is more compact than it has been for many years. This is due to the fact that the stewards at their annual winter meeting were enabled to shorten shipments to a great extent through the willingness of Columbus and Cleveland to take on an extra week. Last year the circuit took in Montreal, where a two week's meeting was staged. War conditions make Canada look like a poor ground for the trotter and pacer this year, and for that reason Montreal was dropped.

At a recent meeting of the board of regents, the salary was doubled, $600 having been the sum set before. It is rumored that the regents, fearing they would lose Buck because of bigger offers coming to him, took it upon themselves to hold on to the all-American tackle by raising his salary.

TEN INNING GAME IS WON BY RED SOX

Berger and Bill Nehr. Have Pitching Duel at Yost's Park That Lasts For Ten Innings.

The J. R. S., strengthened by Berger, won a victory over the fast White Sox team of this city, 3 to 1, in 10 innings Sunday afternoon at Yost Park. The White Sox, with some of the best players of the city, saw easy chance for a victory but were disappointed when Berger, showing old time form, allowed them 2 hits in 10 innings, striking out 15 men. Bill Nehr was in the box for the White Sox and surprised himself by only allowing 3 hits and striking out 14 Red Sox. The game went on for 9 innings without a score, the Red Sox having 2 hits in the 10th inning with two on base. Berger played a ball right down in front of the plate. On an error at first and a mishap to home both out of the game. Berger later scored himself. Sullivan obtained the best hit of the game when he drove out a three bagger to right field, later getting their only score. The J. R. S. play at Paimyra Tuesday.

WHITE SOX WIN TWO GAMES OFF INDIANS

Showing of Giants Is the Sensation of National League During the Last Week.

Playing perfect ball, before a home crowd of thirty thousand, the White Sox shut out Cleveland 2 to 0 in both games Sunday afternoon. The first game was a pitchers' duel between Scott and Cumbe, and this is Cumbe's first defeat. Morton's winning streak was broken in the second game, when erratic support allowed the Sox to win. Faber pitched a masterly game in the second. Sensational fielding featured the games. Ness and Fournier, playing at first, won the games with their timely hits.

A ninth inning batting rally with Saler's error enabled Cincinnati to beat the Cubs in the last game of the series, 3 to 2. The interest of the baseball world is focused on the remarkable spurt of the New York Giants, who won sixteen straight games. The rejuvenated Giants, who were only able to win two out of their first fifteen games, now have established a record and are now in second place. They have played consistent ball and their aggressiveness, if they hold the pace, should cop with ease.

The eastern clubs by reason of the success of the western invasion virtually monopolized the first positions in both leagues. The Cleveland Americans started slipping, and their double defeat Sunday by the Sox show that they are off their runaway pace and have finally cracked. Brooklyn lost the lead in the National during the week, but went back into first place, ahead of the Giants, by a double victory over the Phillies on Saturday. The three leading teams are so close together any one game may bring changes. The Boston Braves were not able to get an even break in the west, and are in fourth place.

In the American form displayed by the New York club was a feature of the week, as the Yanks won five straight. The world's champions Boston took three straight from the Tigers and lost three to New York, because of poor pitching.

Canillon's hitters obtained first place in the Association but lost the

MICHIGAN DOES NOT WANT SPIRIT AT BASEBALL GAMES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS] Ann Arbor, Mich., May 29.—The University of Michigan has put a new order into effect which is expected to curb possible rodyism at local college baseball games. The order provides that whenever spectators become abusive, or too personal, either to the umpire, visiting players or anyone on the field, the umpire shall stop the game until order has been restored. Intense rivalry between the Michigan nine and baseball teams of other state institutions is said to have been responsible for this order. During the Michigan-Kalamazoo college game recently, it was claimed that rooters showed a brand of excitement which could not properly be called "college spirit."

SINGLE CANDIDATE FOR PROGRESSIVES IF THEY WOULD WIN

H. E. Holmes, Milton, Takes Straw
Vote of State—Voters Desire Discard of Bossard and McGovern.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., May 29.—H. E. Holmes of Milton today made public the substance of the replies received to a questionnaire sent by him to four hundred voters as to the advisability of disregarding the announced candidates of Senator Otto Bossard and Governor E. W. McGovern, for the republican nomination for governor and selecting a new or compromise candidate. Of 102 progressives replying, 91 favored uniting on a single candidate and 90 favored the withdrawal of both McGovern and Bossard. In expressing their personal choice, 62 favored Bossard, 39 favored McGovern, nine expressed no choice between McGovern and Bossard, one preferred J. Q. Emery to all others, and one preferred A. H. Dahl. Mr. Holmes, who is friendly to Mr. McGovern, presents the attempt of self-serving politicians to discredit his efforts. Mr. Holmes' statement follows:

"I consider the information I have collected too important and too significant to permit self-serving politicians to belittle its origin or question the sincerity of my purpose in gathering it.

"The questionnaire and letter were sent out at my own expense, without either the consent or advice of any candidate and without the knowledge of any political faction, group or leader. I mailed them from Milton, my home, and not from Madison, as has been reported. I have no connection with the Rightly News. No official or other person representing the Society of Equity has been contacted or had any part, direct or indirect, in preparing or mailing out the questionnaire.

"I am frank to say that I have been and still am friendly to Mr. McGovern. I hoped Mr. McGovern would be the candidate for governor and Mr. La Follette the candidate for senator. Both Mr. McGovern and Mr. La Follette know this to be my attitude.

"I consider Mr. McGovern a broad, forward-looking man, having a genuine and intelligent concern in advancing the agricultural, industrial and business interests of the state. His record shows that as governor he appreciated the necessity for providing educational and other aids to the movement for co-operative marketing—a movement which is recognized by the federal government, by many states, and by many leading economists as being the first step in any effective effort to reduce the high cost of living.

"However, I could have no objection to Mr. Bossard. His record in the state senate shows that he has a broad and intelligent interest in the same problems. I know that Bossard had many steadfast supporters, who held him in the same esteem in which I hold McGovern.

"Clearly, then, here was a serious division in the progressive ranks. Though having the same matters at heart, they were split by differences of judgment as to who would make a more desirable candidate for governor.

"I felt that if both Bossard and McGovern were candidates and made speeches like an equal show of strength at Madison, the result would be nothing less than the defeat of both men and the loss of ground and time in the development of this program. I believed that the majority of voters, like myself, while having some preferences as to men, were more vitally concerned with the principles at stake.

"Accordingly, I prepared a questionnaire designed to get a frank and free expression from independent citizens, who had no selfish interest in the spoils of politics. This questionnaire was sent to a list of four hundred, made up, for the most part, of farmers and working men, but with a fair proportion of business and professional men, including ministers and educators, in each of the seventy-one counties of the state. It was not a political list, and I did not know anything as to the party affiliation of any man on it.

"Out of four hundred sent out, 127 questionnaires have been returned to me filled out. Every section of the state is represented in the replies. A total of 102 were from progressives. Of these, 91 were for Bossard, 39 were for McGovern, nine expressed no choice between Mr. McGovern and Bossard; one gave A. H. Dahl as his first choice; 31 advised that there but our progressive candidate; 90 advised that both McGovern and Bossard withdraw; eight insisted that McGovern remain in the race; six insisted that Bossard remain in the race. The expression as to compromise candidates named in questionnaire was as follows: A. W. Sanborn, 14; J. Q. Emery, 37; W. H. Hutton, 23; scattering, eight.

"From the replies received, I am convinced that the sentiment among independent, thinking progressives is that it is not advisable for two progressives to seek the republican nomination, and that a new candidate be selected by a fairly constituted conference of representative progressives. I don't know what the self-styled leaders and professional politicians think, but I know this much: If the progressive movement is to live, it will be necessary for candidates and leaders to consider and give some inclination to submit to the judgment of the fellows who do the voting. I think the information gathered will help to clarify the situation. It has been conscientiously collected, and I believe that it is just as conclusive an indication of sentiment in the state as if the number of replies had been one thousand and two instead of 102."

"I am frank to say that I have been and still am friendly to Mr. McGovern. I hoped Mr. McGovern would be the candidate for governor and Mr. La Follette the candidate for senator. Both Mr. McGovern and Mr. La Follette know this to be my attitude.

The expression as to compromise candidates named in questionnaire was as follows: A. W. Sanborn, 14; J. Q. Emery, 37; W. H. Hutton, 23; scattering, eight.

"From the replies received, I am convinced that the sentiment among independent, thinking progressives is that it is not advisable for two progressives to seek the republican nomination, and that a new candidate be selected by a fairly constituted conference of representative progressives. I don't know what the self-styled leaders and professional politicians think, but I know this much: If the progressive movement is to live, it will be necessary for candidates and leaders to consider and give some inclination to submit to the judgment of the fellows who do the voting. I think the information gathered will help to clarify the situation. It has been conscientiously collected, and I believe that it is just as conclusive an indication of sentiment in the state as if the number of replies had been one thousand and two instead of 102."

GIGANTIC TERMINAL PLANNED IN CHICAGO

Sixty-Six Million Dollars Will be Expended by Several of Railroads for New Buildings.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, May 29.—The sum of $66,000,000 will have been expended by several of the great railroads operating in the Chicago district when the new freight and passenger terminals now under construction are completed. The freight terminal will be finished in about six more months but it will take nearly three years to complete the passenger terminal.

The freight terminal will embrace laying of track on a stretch covering twelve city blocks, from the Chicago river south to Twelfth street. The plans for the terminal will be arranged as to give a maximum speed and convenience of handling freight with a minimum of ground space necessary for the buildings involved. The work is being done by the Pennsylvania lines, West will cost, for land acquired, building material and labor, approximately $16,000,000 and the finished work will be one of the greatest accomplishments of its kind in the history of modern railroads.

The main aim of the buildings was a terminal that would be so arranged as to eliminate street congestion in handling traffic and would make speedy and easy the handling of the enormous and steadily growing freight business of Chicago. This result will be accomplished by close grouping of the several parts of the terminal structure and by placing the railroad tracks below street level, with the freight house just above the tracks at street level, and with a storage warehouse above the freight house. The idea of placing the component parts of the terminal above one another, instead of side by side, will make the handling of incoming and outgoing freight easy by a system of powerful, modern-type electric elevators.

Adjoining the freight house, and all under cover, will be eighteen tracks, which will accommodate 400 freight cars. Inclosed driveways will protect freight and freight handlers in all sorts of weather.

One thousand men have been working for about ten months, some laying the heavy piling and concrete foundations, and some putting up the structural steel frame-work of the buildings. About 25 per cent of the structural steel work remains to be finished. This will be in about six months and the total cost of labor, by that time, will, it is estimated, amount to about $5,500,000.

The steel, brick, concrete, piling and terra cotta that will go into the buildings will cost about $2,500,000. The structures will occupy a ground space of 450 by 750 feet between the Chicago river and what was once Stewart avenue. Acquisition of the ground thus used cost the railroad company $12,000,000.

The union passenger terminal, on which preparatory work has begun and which will be completed in about three years, will cost about $50,000,000 and will be the finest railway passenger station in the world. Its promoters say it will be built and occupied by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, the Pennsylvania, and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy roads, the Pennsylvania being represented by two branches, the "Pannhandle" and the Fort Wayne.

The station will be composed virtually of two buildings, with common facilities of egress and ingress. A main building will be west of Canal street, and a concourse, between two sets of tracks, will be east of Canal street. Each of the two buildings will be surrounded by four streets, thus giving eight points of exit and entrance to passengers and making access to trains quick and convenient. Train sheds will extend from Madison street, south to Harrison street.

The architectural feature of the main building will be a waiting room 100 by 300 feet and 120 feet high. The building will occupy a ground space of 325 by 350 feet. The train sheds will be of the latest covered-in type and will eliminate columns in the center of the platforms.

MARKED REGULARITY IN CANCER DEATHS OVER LONG PERIOD

Big Increase in Mortality Rate Is Made Over Period of Five Years, Records Show.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., May 29.—Wisconsin's cancer death rate for 1913—78.5 per 100,000 population, was almost identical with the rate for the registration area of the United States that year, which was 78.9. Wisconsin in that year reported 1,899 deaths from cancer. The total has ascended each year with marked regularity. The figures follow:

Year.	Deaths from cancer.	Rate per 100,000 pop.
1908	1,513	57.3
1909	1,548	71.0
1910	1,736	75.4
1911	1,765	74.7
1912	1,841	76.9
1913	1,899	78.5

According to Frederick L. Hoffman, a noted life insurance statistician, Wisconsin's crude death rate for this malignant disease for the five-year period, 1908-1912, was 72.8 per 100,000. This reflects a much more normal condition than is shown by Vermont, with a rate of 102.2, or of Maine, with 100.7, or of Massachusetts, with 93.2. Other eastern states, and also California, show abnormally high rates of cancer mortality. The rates for the later settled commonwealths, like those of the west, are found to be lower than in the older regions of the country, which contain a relatively high proportion of persons aged 45 and over, who are most susceptible to cancer.

The standardized death rate for cancer credited to Wisconsin by the same authority was 69.7 for 1912. This rate is based on deaths confined to age groups, cancer being peculiarly an attribute of age. This is proven by the fact that in the United States' registration area in 1913, out of 49,387 deaths from cancer at all known ages, 42,173, or 85.4 percent, occurred at ages 45 and over. Tissues and organs which are just commencing to decline are those which are prone to develop it.

In Hoffman's new book on cancer mortality throughout the world, from which the foregoing figures are taken, he reaches the conclusion, from exhaustive statistical investigation, that the relative frequency of cancer is decidedly greater at the present time than in former years; that the disease results in an annual loss in the principal civilized countries of the world of not less than 500,000 lives, and in the United States (1915) of approximately 50,000 lives, and that in this country the cancer death rate is increasing at the rate of about 2.5 percent per year. The mortality from cancer, he concludes, stands foremost as one of the few preventable diseases that are on the increase in the countries for which official records provide a trustworthy basis of comparison.

JAPAN MAY ADOPT BROAD GAUGE TRACKS FOR MAIN RAILROADS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Tokio, May 29.—Japan will probably decide to change her main railroad system from a narrow to a broad gauge. The present gauge of three feet and six inches was adopted when the first line was built in Japan but experience has demonstrated the wisdom of widening it to the standard broad gauge such as obtains in the United States. For one thing it will permit of greater speed, and for another it will be more useful as a means of communication in connection with national defense in time of war.

Especially is the change desired in the interest of a greater development of commerce and industry. It is planned to inaugurate the tremendous task involved by widening the gauge on the main trunk line which connects Tokio with Shimonoseki, a distance of about 800 miles. This is the line which connects with Korea and the Siberian railroad to Europe. The reconstruction expense for this line covering a period of twelve years is estimated at 297,000,000 yen or about $148,500,000. The reconstruction of the other lines of the Empire is estimated to cost the same figure, the work extending over a period of 25 years.

Had Its Drawbacks.
"We want to introduce the blessings of civilization among you," "Yes," answered the savage. "The only trouble is that when you also introduce your improved war mechanism, so many of us won't live to enjoy them."

Why You Should Own a Maxwell

Comfort

First, because it is a comfortable riding car. Plenty of room for five people; deep, soft cushions; springs made of the best spring steel, scientifically heat-treated, accurately suspended and balanced. You will always be comfortable in a Maxwell.

Appearance

Second, because the Maxwell is a trim, smart, good-looking car.

Many makers of heavy, high priced cars, as you know, have copied the general lines, the shape of the body and hood of the Maxwell. This is more of a compliment than an infringement.

Service

Third, because the Maxwell, being a product of thirteen years evolution, is so designed and manufactured that it gives unfailing, consistent and satisfying service to thousands of owners.

Maxwell cars are made of the best materials that money and brains can buy—and they are made right. You can get out of any car only what is put into it.

Low First-Cost

Fourth, because you get everything in a Maxwell that you can get in any car and you get it for less money.

The answer to this is that the Maxwell is a light car and it is built in enormous quantities. The Maxwell Co. is one of the three largest producers of high grade motor cars in the world.

Low After-Cost

Fifth, because the Maxwell will give you more miles per dollar than any car built.

We say this without hesitation or doubt. It is our honest belief and we are willing to prove it by Maxwell owners, by comparison with any other car or by any other way you suggest or prefer.

The Maxwell will please you. We know it will. Let us arrange for a demonstration and we'll take the responsibility of satisfying you completely.
